Welcome to Opening to Joy

Welcome to the Soul Matters Multi-Platform Packet for Pre-Kindergarten through First Grades for the month of December. This year our monthly themes invite us to think about not only what values our UU faith calls us to but also the key actions and skills that our times require of us. Pandemic time exposes the need for humanity to change and adjust in key ways. So each month we will explore a different skill that we need to develop or lean into so that we don't just return to normal but actually bring about a "new normal."

This month we explore the ways in which our times call us to "Open to Joy." There are four ways we will tease apart the idea of opening to joy with our young children. Here they are:

Lesson A: Creating Joy - On the work of laughter and silliness.

Lesson B: Sharing Joy - On the work of generosity.

Lesson C: Finding Joy (even when sad) - On the work of redirecting our gaze.

Lesson D: The Joy of Us - On the work of creating home/being together.

I am particularly excited about the idea of Finding Joy (even when sad.) During the brainstorm lab in September on Opening to Joy, we found ourselves first in grief and frustration at the return of high COVID numbers and the cancellation of many plans for opening in person. There was a sense of gloom. Next, we reminded ourselves that we could still be open to joy, even in the tough times, providing the lens for this session. We started pivoting in our awareness of who and where we were, members of a resilient faith community. Then, our gloom turned to giggles as we described the simple, and even silly, joyful things that were a part of our lives now - a striped shirt, a weekly card game. In the end, we were wiping away tears of hilarity as joy overtook us and we laughed our way across the Zoom screen making puns and suggesting outlandish ideas for the Winter Holidays. It was an escape and a boost, giving all of us a smile that opened a space of joy as we moved forward into our day.

I wish similar moments of whimsy, smiles and joy connection for you. We may not have traditions back, or any type of normal or new normal. But may we find giggles and smiles along the way as we navigate the resilient paths of joy during these tough times.

Lesson A: Creating Joy On the Work of Laughter (Core Story: Your Name is a Song**)

Theme Angle

Our theme this month is Opening to Joy. One of the ways we UUs open to joy is to find our funny bones. We create joy by celebrating the power of laughter and the work of whimsy. So let's create some joy by letting laughter guide our way!

Translating This for Young Children

Laughter creates joy.

Light It!

We know that everyone approaches chalice lighting differently. Some use the same chalice lighting words for the entire month, while others pick a new one each week and tailor it to that week's particular theme connection. So instead of offering specific chalice lightings for you to use, we offer four "places" for you to find the chalice lighting that fits your approach:

- Worship Web: <https://www.uua.org/worship/words/chalice-lighting>
- Tapestry of Faith and other common Chalice Lightings for Children
- Our monthly Soul Matters worship packets
- Your own congregation's special chalice lighting words

Extinguish It!

Signal the end of "sacred time" or "Chalice time" with a short ritual for extinguishing the chalice. It might be just after any of the below sections or at the end of the session. Use a candle snuffer if you use real candles for dramatic effect, or just blow it out. Here are some resources for you to find the chalice extinguishing words that fits your approach:

Finding our Funny Bone

Reflection Object: a bone

Suggested Script

“Here is a bone. I wonder what kind of bone it is. Have you ever heard of the name of a bone that isn’t in your body? It’s called our “funny bone.” Use this [source / quote to describe a funny bone in your own words]:

“Have you ever hit the inside of your elbow in just the right spot and felt a tingling or prickly kind of dull pain? That's your funny bone! It doesn't really hurt as much as it feels weird. The "funny bone" got its nickname because of that funny feeling you get after you hit it.

But your funny bone isn't actually a bone at all. Running down the inside part of your elbow is a nerve called the ulnar nerve...People sometimes mention the funny bone when they talk about their sense of humor. Maybe you've heard someone say that something "really tickled my funny bone." We'll leave you with a joke and hope that it tickles yours:

What's a bone in your body that you can never break? Your funny bone!”

This is also a great way to think about our monthly theme: Opening to Joy. One of the ways we UUs open to joy is to find our funny bones. We create joy by celebrating the power of the silly and the work of laughter. So today we’re going to explore a bunch of ways in which we can create joy through silliness and fun. Are you ready?! Let’s begin!”

Special Guest Strategy: Who in your congregation is known for their sense of humor, or magic tricks, balloon sculpting or even a collection of whimsical things. Invite them to share how they create joy.

Tell It and Talk About It!

(Story)

Suggested Introductory Words

“A great way to explore finding joy through playfulness and silliness is by sharing this book [hold it up]. In this story, a girl is upset because no one at school could say her name correctly. In response, her mother doesn’t get mad but instead playfully uses singing to brighten her daughter's spirit and help her find a great way to handle the situation. It’s a great reminder about honoring the beauty and opening to the joy of everyone’s names.”

Reflection Prompts

- What was your favorite part of the book?
- What was your favorite name in the book?
- If someone had trouble pronouncing your name, what song would you teach them?

Notes on the Book

**ARAOMC Context from the Widening the Circle Research Team

The WTC team chose this book because of its appropriateness for the theme of Opening to Joy.

Everyone has the right to insist on having their name pronounced correctly. Everyone can learn to pronounce names that are new to them. All names are beautiful. The author approaches the importance of learning to say names in a way that creates joy.

There is a glossary in the back of the book that discusses the meanings and origins of the names that appear in the story. This book also opens the door for discussions on the importance of listening to what someone wants to be called and how they pronounce their name.

Lesson B:

Sharing Joy

On the work of generosity (Core Story: The Word Collector**)

Theme Angle

Many of us know the song and lyric, “Love is something if you give it away... you end up having more!”. This month we can also say Joy is something if you give it away, you end up having more. The theme this month is Opening to Joy, and today we talk about sharing joy and the work of generosity. Just like the song says, if you give it away, you end up having more. Generosity gives us the gift of a warm heart and a sense of wholeness. In fact, we can never be really joyful and happy unless we are generous.

So when it comes to opening to joy, our faith clearly tells us, “Generosity makes us whole.”

Translating This for Young Children

Sharing joy makes more joy!

Sharing Joy with Generosity

Reflection Object: A Penny

Suggested Script

“Here is a penny. A Unitarian woman named Malvina Reynolds wrote a song called Magic Penny. Here it is. Sing it or play the video [Magic Penny.] Love is something if you give it away... you end up having more. This month we can also say Joy is something if you give it away... you end up having more. The theme this month is Opening to Joy, and today we are talking about sharing joy and the work of generosity.

Just like the song says, if you give it away, you end up having more. Generosity gives us the gift of a warm heart and a sense of wholeness. In fact, we can never be really joyful and happy unless we are generous.

And on top of that, when we are generous, we don't just end up giving others more stuff - we end up giving them more joy! Just think how you feel when your friend shares their lunch with you, or wagon with you, or even treats you to an ice cream cone. You light up! You feel good! Not just because you have something you didn't before, but also because it makes you feel more connected to your friends. And that's such a happy thing!

So today we're going to explore a bunch of ways that sharing leads to more joy, for others and ourselves! Are you ready?! Let's begin!”

Tell It and Talk About It!

Suggested Introductory Words

“Today’s story is a great way to explore how sharing and being generous creates more joy in the world and for ourselves. In the story, we meet Jerome. He loves collecting all kinds of words. It makes him happy. But we also learn that what makes him even happier is taking the words he collects and sharing them with others. Let’s listen to the story together!”

Book: HERE

Reflection Prompts

- What was your favorite part of the story?
- How did you feel when he started writing poetry with his words?
- What things have you collected?
- Have you ever given away your collection to other children? Or have you thought about what it would be like to share it with others?
- Do you feel happy and joyful when people share things with you? Why do you think receiving gifts and generosity makes us feel so happy?

Notes on the Book

**ARAOMC Context from the Widening the Circle Research Team

The WTC team chose this book because of its appropriateness for the theme of Opening to Joy. The main character is a Person of Color. The main character is an intellectual/creative/nerd. Words are important/words are creative. Word choice is important. Words can cause harm. Words can create joy.

Explore It with Generosity Cards

Share joy by creating a winter holiday card and giving it to someone who could use a thoughtful uplifting message. These cards could be used to go with the generous gifts from the Mitten Tree, below.

Explore It with Mirror Art Cards

Fold a piece of drawing paper in half. Create some swirls, dots and lines of paint. Fold the paper to “print” the design on the other side of the paper. Consider using these art pieces as cards to include with the mittens, hats, scarves and socks from the Mitten Tree.

Explore It with a Song

Sing this song together with hand motions, below or share the video

From you I receive (extend hands and cup them from “other” to your heart)

To you I give (touch your heart, then extend hands, cupped to “other”)

Together we share (grasp hands of those next to you, or grasp your own hands together)

And by this we live. (place hands on heart)

Explore it with an Interview

Congregational Visitor (online or in person)

In the spirit of cultivating multigenerational relationships, invite someone who has served in a Soup Kitchen or participated in a Service Trip. Invite them to reflect about how sharing joy with others whose needs are greater than our own, creates joy in themselves.

Explore It with Paper Ornament Gift Making

Create Paper Doves for others

Invite the children to make paper doves for a shut-in or someone who is missing family at this season.

<http://www.dltk-kids.com/animals/birds-doves.htm>

Explore It with a Mitten or Sock Tree Ritual

The powerful part of this activity is the sight of a bare tree on the table in front of the children at first. Then as the children hang their gifts of generosity (socks, mittens, scarves) the tree takes on a new shape, and becomes a symbol of generosity.

Suggested Script

"We are going to make a Mitten/Sock Tree. A Mitten/Sock Tree is a way to share joy with those whose needs are greater than our own. When we lean into sharing joy with others, we create joy in ourselves and joy for others. Especially during our month of opening to joy, the tree gives us a way to share joy at this season of giving.

Details: How to do it & Tips

- Setting Things Up: For a larger group, use a Christmas Tree large enough to hold all the gifts on its branches. Save a colorful hat for the top! For a smaller group, use a smaller Christmas tree and place it on a table.
  - Play The Waltz of the Flowers from the Nutcracker or Rockin Around the Christmas Tree in the background as the children one by one place their gift of generosity on the tree.
- Ritual Process: Finish with a short blessing:
  - We share our joy with others
  - in the form of hats and mittens.
  - We remember the words of a leader about how to live:
  - "We make a living by what we get. We make a life by what we give."
  - Amen, Blessed be.

Note: Many congregations make the Mitten or Sock Tree a multigenerational celebration during a Worship Service. Check out the Soul Matters Mitten or Sock Tree Google Doc for more details for a multigenerational celebration as well as suggestions for a Drive Thru Mitten Tree.

Lesson C:

Finding Joy Even When You Are Sad

On the work of redirecting our gaze (Core Story: The Tiger and the Strawberry)

Theme Angle

The theme this month is Opening to Joy. In this session, we explore changing our perspective, redirecting our gaze to find joy, even in tough times. Do we see a glass half empty or half full? If we redirect our gaze from the emptiness, we can see the fullness.

We can look at the winter solstice in the same way: it is the darkest day of the year, and it is the return of the light. Viewing it through a positive lens shifts it from a time of depletion to a time of joy!

This is especially important in our time of COVID, climate change, and racism. In order to take on these challenges, we must be able to keep hope and joy in our sights. That's where the strength will come to bring change.

Translating This for Young Children

Find joy even when you are sad.

Half Full or Half Empty?

Reflection Object: a glass of water half full

Suggested Script:

“Here is a glass of water. I’ll pour some water in (pour it in halfway.) So how many of you think the glass is half empty? How many of you think it’s half full? Guess what, you are both correct. It’s just a matter of what you see.

The theme this month is Opening to Joy. In this session, we explore finding joy, even when we are sad. Do we see a glass half empty or half full? If we redirect our gaze from the emptiness, we can see the fullness.

We can look at the winter solstice in the same way: it is the darkest day of the year, and it is the return of the light. Viewing it through finding joy shifts it from a time of emptiness to a time of joy!

Lesson D: The Joy of Us

On the work of being together

(Core Story: Ode to Joy Flash Mob)

Theme Angle

Opening to joy at the end of the holiday season means celebrating being together, with family, with community. How do we do the work of being together? By curiosity, by gentleness, and kindness towards each other. We lean in to explore a feeling of “home” by sharing, eating, and building together. And there is arguably no greater joy than that joy we find when we are “home”!

Note: Since this session could be used at the end of the month, right after Christmas Day, we have created it so it could be a simple multigenerational gathering in person, or on Zoom, together to make Gingerbread Houses, or it could be a time with children. Celebrate opening to joy with a reminder of the “joy of us.”

Light It!

*We know that everyone approaches chalice lighting differently. Some use the same chalice lighting words for the entire month, while others pick a new one each week and tailor it to that week’s particular theme connection. ### Extinguish It!

*Signal the end of “sacred time” or “Chalice time” with a short ritual for extinguishing the chalice. It might be just after any of the below sections or at the end of the session. Just as the music box gets louder when placed on a table, we too get happier when we are around people who are special to us. It might be our family; it might be our congregation. So today, we’re going to explore how being together opens us to joy. Are you ready?! Let’s begin!”

Ode to Joy

Suggested Introductory Words

“Here’s a video about how one little girl dropped a coin in an instrument case and began a street concert flash mob with some of the most moving, joyful music ever created. The people on the street gather as musicians and chorus slowly join each instrument. By the end, there are all kinds and ages of people enjoying the music written by Beethoven and creating community together, or to put it another way, a sense of home together!

As we view the video, watch carefully how the musical experience is created together.

Reflection Prompts

- What part of the video will you remember most?
- How did you feel when just a few musicians came out? When the whole orchestra appeared?
- How did the music make you feel?

Explore It!

(Small Group Activities and Experiential Learning)

Here are a variety of suggestions for digging deeper into the theme. Choose the one(s) just right for your group! In many cases, these will work as well online as in-person. When a more involved online adaptation or alternative is needed, we highlight this in purple.

Explore It with a Group Reflection

Best moments Post Its: What gives you joy?

Invite the children and all to draw their most joyful moments, with their family, their congregation, and their friends on Post It notes. Invite everyone to place them on a poster so they can be read and shared.

Explore it with Gingerbread Houses

Create these super simple graham cracker gingerbread houses individually or together in small groups.

<https://ourbestbites.com/easy-graham-cracker-gingerbread-houses/>

Then take a tour of the “Joy of Us Village” you have created.

This can be adapted for online by asking families to gather the ingredients and making the houses together on screen, then sharing the final product.

Explore It with a Zoom Candlelight Ceremony

Create a silent joyful time together with music such as “Silent Night” by music box

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DaWhso9iesU> and every family lighting a candle and sharing it on Zoom in stillness for the 3 minutes of the music box playing.

Explore It with a Stuffie Pageant

Stuffie Christmas Pageant

Invite stuffed animals to offer the Christmas Pageant this year! Take pictures of the stuffies as they illustrate the traditional story then share them in a Zoom or on Social Media.

- Jesus as a baby doll in the manger with Mary in a blue cape and Joseph in a brown cape
- dress up stuffies like angels with tinsel headbands
- keep watch over the sheep (and other stuffies) with burlap or brown headbands
- bring gifts as wise stuffies with ribbon headbands in gold and silver

Children’s Chapel & Time for All Ages Suggestions

Below is a list of picture books, tellable wisdom tales and activity based “message moments” to support your efforts beyond RE classes and groups, such as children’s chapel or Multigenerational times for all ages.

Knowing that some congregations will want to draw from the stories in the sessions above to ensure continuity between worship and RE classes, we first list this packet’s stories to make them all available in one glance.

We also know that some congregations like to have stories in children’s chapel and multigenerational worship that complement but are different from those shared in RE classes. So we’ve also listed some suggestions not found in the sessions above. We hope both lists support whichever approach you use!
